Vennie O. Davis, James Ough wed

A white bell suspended from the ceiling in front of the fireplace, which was decorated with white ribbons, was the setting for the wedding of Vennie O. Davis and James R. Ough, Saturday, Jan. 6, at the Washougal home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Davis, son and daughter-in-law of the bride.

The afternoon ceremony was read by the Rev. Bob Kunz.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of violet satin styled with long sheer sleeves of violet. She carried a bouquet of pink jackstraw mums and baby's breath, centered with a white phalaenopsis orchid. At her throat was an opal and diamond locket, gift of the groom.

Elisa May Davis was maid of honor for her grandmother wearing a gown of pink chiffon with floral print. Her flowers were pink roses and carnations.

Two granddaughters of the bride served as bridesmaids, Mrs. Donna Tillman in a floral chiffon gown of green, and Kim Marie Davis in floral blue chiffon. Their flowers were pink roses and carnations.

Millard Stout attended the groom as best man.

At the reception at the Davis home, the tiered wedding cake was cut by Donna Tillman and Elisa Davis; Mrs. Darlene Davis, daughter-in-law of the bride, poured; and Kim Davis attended the guest book.

A family dinner that evening was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Robinson of Washougal, daughter and son-in-law of the bride.

A retiree of Pendleton Woolen Mill, the bride is a member of the Cape Horn American Legion Auxiliary No. 122.

The bridegroom, a retired construction foreman, served with the Engineers in WWII, and is a member of the Camas American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Special guest at the wedding was the great-grandson of the bride, Daniel Tillman, six-week-old son of James and Donna Tillman.
